THUBSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 2, 1858.

M. G. MANTMAN, P. C. DUNNINGVIN, J. O. GRIFFITH,

The Issue in Illinois-Fougins and Lin-coln. Judge Decutas and Mr. Lincoln opened the canwass for the Senate, in a discussion at Ottawa, Illinois, on the 21st ult. We published an abstraot of the speech delivered by Judge Dovacas in our yesterday's impression, and to-day we present a portion of Mr. Lincoln's reply. Judge D. reads from his competitor's record passages proving that Mr. Lincoln has at various times endersed all the most odious heresies of the abolition creed. The latter denies the correctness of some of these quotations, but admits enough to prove that he entertains violent anti-slavery sentiments. The principal issue is thus lucidly stated by Judge Douglas: We are told by Lincoln that he is utterly opposed to the Dred Scott decision, and will not submit to it, for the reason, as he cays, that it deprives the negro of the rights and privileges of being citizens. For one, I am opposed to negro citizenship in any form. I believe that this government was made on the white basis. I believe it was made by the white man for the benefit of white men and their posterity forever, and I am in favor of confining the citizenship to the white men-men of European birth and European descent, instead of conferring it on Negroes and Indians, and other Inferior races. But Mr. Lincoln, following the lead of the abolition orators that came here and lectured in the basement of your churches and school houses, reads the Declaration of Independence that all men are free and equal, and then says, " How can you deprive the negro of the equality which God and the Declaration of Independence award to him?" He and they maintain that negro equality is guaranteed by the laws of wod and reasserted in the Declaration of Independence. If they think so, they ought thus to undersell them at their own doors!

I do not question Mr. Lincoln's conscientious beis his brother. But fer my own part, I do not regard the negro as my equal, and I positively deny that he is my brother, or any kin to me whatever.

The validity of the Dred Scott decision is the leading issue between Judge D. and his competitor. Mr. Loncorn takes beld ground against that decision, and denounces it in connection with the Nebraska Bill as one of a series of measures intended to propagate and perpetuate the institution of slavery. He charges distinctly, as Mr. SEWARD charged in the Senate, that the Dred Scott decision had been agreed on between the leaders of the Democratic cupies in the canvass :

But I cannot shake Judge Douglas's teeth loose from the Dred Scott decision. Like some obstinate animal (I mean no disrespect) he will hang on when he has once got his teeth fixed, you may cut off a leg, or you may tear away an arm, still he will not relax his hold. And so I may point to the Judge, and say that he is bespattered all over, from the beginning of his political life to the present time, with attacks upon his judicial decisions-I may cut off limb atter limb of his public record, and strive to wrench him from a single dictum of the Courtvet I cannot divert him tr m it. He hangs to the ast to the Dred Scott decision. [Loud cheers] These things show that there is a purpose strong as death and sternity for which he adheres to this des On Monday last it gave an account of some supposcision, and for which he will adhere to all other decisions of the same Court. [Vociferous ap-

This doctrine would be the most certain means that could be devised to prevent | I would rather that Sarah and the baby should rethe extension of Southern institutions. But in order to maintain it they must invalidate the Dred Scott decision, and overturn the authority of the Supreme Court. We consequently find the leaders of the Republican party assailing that decision as Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Sewand have done. The Mormons enjoyment of our common territory, and subscribes are becoming rather saucy to the Gentiles. to the doctrine that the territorial legislature has no right to exclude slavery therefrom. He assails | Fort Bridger. with great power the doctrine attributed to his competitor, of negro equality, and proves that this doctrine if carried into practice would lead to amalgamation with all its attendant evils. He contends that the negro cannot be a citizen of the United States, and has no right to participate in the affairs of our Government. last session of Congress, and while we can never again recognize him as a safe and reliable states-

test which he is now waging against the enemies

The Banner having attacked the administration | the corn, and stealing everything they could lay for giving a contract for furnishing iron pipes for the Washington aqueduct to foreigners, we replied that proposals for furnishing this pipe were adverhad nothing to do with the matter. To this the Ranner replies:

"The Union and American says the administration | Salt Lake, came passengers to St. Joseph. had nothing to do with making the contract for the Washington water pipes, and had no control over it. We don't know that this apology will relieve the administration in the least degree.

We have never seen this logic equalled but once. In the case of Giles Scroggins and the ghost who | brings the following items; claimed him, a similar argument was used:

"I am not dead, says he, you fool, "Says the Ghost, says he, why that's no rule!"

tion of the law, for this reason: "It is a well known fact that the President did attempt to control the action of his political friends in the matter of the Lecompton and English bills, and actually succedeed in passing the latter bill through both Houses. If the President had taken the same interest in the welfare of American manufactures, that he exhibited in the success of his Kansas policy, can it be for a moment believed that this contract would have been given to speculators in Scotch iron? The contrast between the two cases is remarkably striking " Such is the argument of the Banner! It would than four millions sterling.

pitying smile from an opponent-but when it is noticed that the President is only charged with attempting to inflaence his political friends, while Capt. Manne, who has charge of the aquaduct, is a political comy, there isn't even a chance for the "contrast" spoken of. If we were to adopt the Bunner's logic, we might hold that paper responsible for that contract. Mr. Buchanas tried to influence his friends to vote for Kansas, says that paper. Then why didn't the Banner do the same thing, and influence its friend, Capt. Maios, to give that iron entract to same good Know Nothing? We pause

(shortly) for reply! But the Banner says that " Mesers. Starr & Co., of Philadelphia, agreed to supply the iron at $38 per ton; Mr. Myers, the Scotch speculator, agreed to sapply it at $38.85 per ton." On the other hand, Capt. Mayos says that the contract was awarded to the lowest bidder; and, on this subject Capt. MEIGE, as he knows much more about the matter than the Banner, is much the best authority, with us.

With the following very conclusive statement from Mr. Maius himself, we drop this subject: "An advertisement for the materials and work needed to complete the aqueduct, was published for two months, under the laws of Congress. This adverti-ement engaged that the lowest responsible bidder should have the contract for the remainder of the iron pipes, many miles of which had been already furnished by a citizen of Camden, New Jer sey, under a former contract. The present contract was awarded to a citizen of Philadelphia, Mr Lawrence Myers. Thus were all parties treated with equal fairness, and the interests of the United States, which pays for the pipes, protected. The price is low. The contract is too large to be filled y one man's means in the required time, and Mr. Myers negotiates with the great from masters of Philadelphia to assist him; but I suppose, for I know nothing of the matter, he finds their prices too high for his contract, and sasks hatter forms

"If this be so, who is to blame ? Is it the engineer, who, acting under the laws, invited fair compeon, the contractor, who seeks to make the best terms he can, or the Philadelphia manufacturers, who allow a Scotch firm three thousand miles off

"I hope that the contractor will succeed in making or purchasing his pipes in this country. No one lief that the negro was made his equal, and hence | more than myself would regret to see the Capitol supplied with water through pipes not of our own manufacture, but certainly I cannot interfere in the private business of a contractor, and it was my duy to award the contract to the lowest bidder. He happens to be a Philadelphian.

While the officers of the Government have no right to pay out more of the money entrusted to them, in order to secure American iron, the manufacturers who complain have a perfect right to abate their prices, so as to keep the work in this country, and they would show more patriotism thus, than by complaining of the contractor who follows his interest, er of the engineer who has done his duty."

It will be seen by the above, that after full and party and the Supreme Court of the United States | ample notice, the contract for furnishing the water for the purpose of siding in the extension of slave- pipes was given to the lowest bidder, who is a citizen ry and giving the preponderance of power to the of Philadelphia.
